

“Peer Tutoring”

Amy Wyatt
Hopkins Co. Central High School

A person is beautiful.

A person is kind.

A person can't hear.

A person is blind.

A person is unique.

Each one a prism.

A person has Down syndrome.

Another autism.

A person can be happy.

A person can care.

Some people have a disability.

Some use a wheelchair.

Some people point.

Some people laugh.

This person has a disability.

This person can't do math.

Some people stare.

Some others give weird looks.

This person has a disability.

This person can't read books.

Another person wants to help.

This person becomes a mentor.

This person helps with an open heart.

This person is a peer tutor.

This person once pointed;

Once laughed and once stared.

Now this person teaches

Others to care.

Another person wants to help.

Another person is a new link to the chain.

This person has made new friends.

And has learned what can be gained.

All people need help.

All people need others who care.

Join the peer tutoring chain,

And be amazed at what you have to share.
